Hi there!
I’m Sophia, and I’m a second year Classicist. The Romans loved to communicate. In fact, this one guy, Julius Caesar, wrote eight books of notes to keep everyone updated on his time in Gaul — smart! I, too, love to communicate, and I’m ready and raring to communicate for you, the people of Downing.

Proposed by: Megan Grant
Seconded by: Adrian Ramirez-Valdez
ss2553

Am I qualified? Ha!

- I’m the social secretary for Downing Netball Club
- Also, communication is essential for playing team sports. We’ve won our last three games; you connect the dots.
- I occasionally need to email my supervisors and I’m really good at that.
- I work behind Downing Bar as a smart, friendly, and approachable representative of the college.
- I’ve run the Downing quiz several times to great acclaim.

Here’s what I’m thinking...

- A two-weekly calendar format for college events.
- Keep the newsletter fresh each week with contributions from other witty students.
- Broadcast the achievements of Downing students (for example, if one of us is in a play, you’ll know about it!)
- Overall, ensure the newsletter remains a useful tool for all the movers and shakers at Downing.

Can I send emails? Sure can!

Can I listen to people speaking and make notes? You bet!

Can I ‘oversee all JCR communication, which includes ensuring frequent and easily accessible contact between college students, college administration, and the JCR’? Oh, hell yeah!

Proposed by: Megan Grant
Seconded by: Adrian Ramirez-Valdez
ss2553

Strongest on Kenny A top floor, 2019

@downingcollegenetballclub

Wow, pancakes! Chef!